

Core Mechanics & Universal Rules

In this high-velocity survival sandbox, the player has no weapons, no inventory, and no ability to hold or interact with objects beyond physical contact. You function on a one-hit-death system—any direct contact with a predator's attack or lethal hazard results in an immediate game over.

The Traversal & Interactivity Rules

- Trajectory as an Instrument: You interact with the world purely through velocity, body collision, proximity herding, and slipstreaming.
- Proximity Herding: Sprinting or hydro-dashing close to small fauna frightens them into motion, steering their movement vectors into predator lines of sight.
- Body-Impact Flora Triggers: Plants activate their chemical, kinetic, or acoustic effects when your body physically collides with or grazes them at high speed.
- Persistent Injury Architecture: Beasts take real-time damage from environmental hazards or other predators. Injuries lower top speeds, widen turn radiuses, alter FABRIK joint rigs (e.g., limp animations, severed limbs), and bleed into the Eulerian Scent Grid. Wounded beasts permanently retain these impairments and become targets for scavengers and apex predators.

1. The Hull

Traversing the exterior steel plating of a massive submerged submarine amidst crushing ocean currents, thruster jets, and barnacle-encrusted metal.

The 4 Large Beasts

- Passive Giant (Hull-Grazer Whale): A gargantuan filter-feeder that slowly scrapes algae off the sub's keel. Its massive, armored body acts as a moving, solid surface you can wall-run across to cross high-current voids and shield yourself from open-water predators.
- Clever Hunter (Siphon Octopus): An insanely intelligent cephalopod that anchors itself inside flooded exhaust tubes. It tracks the sub's rhythm and uses dynamic water displacement from ballast vents to drag you into its lair, using severed pilot-fish bodies as bait.
- Unique Predator (Electric Hull-Crusher Eel): Senses the electrical field of the submarine. It wraps its massive body around the hull and violently slams into the metal plating, sending a massive shockwave across the hull that disrupts your momentum and shatters nearby rust-algae.

- Apex Predator (Steel-Biter Megalodon): A terrifyingly large shark that bites entire chunks out of the submarine's outer superstructure. When it approaches, its massive shadow eclipses the local light, and its violent strikes create massive water turbulence that tears you off the hull if you aren't anchored in a crevice.

The 2 Fodder Beasts

- Barnacle-Mites: Abundant, tiny crustaceans that carpet the metal. Dashing through them crushes them instantly, coating your suit in slick fluid that momentarily reduces drag.
- Pilot-Fish Swarms: Small fish that ride the hydrodynamic boundary layer of the hull. Sprinting through them causes the swarm to scatter, providing a visual cue for incoming current shifts.

The 5 Flora & Organic Types

- Rust-Algae: Brittle metallic growth. Grazing it creates a cloud of rust particles that blinds predators and corrodes their natural armor if they give chase.
- Bio-Electric Hydroids: Plant-like organisms attached to rivets. Striking them discharges a static shockwave that stuns pursuing Siphon Octopuses.
- Pressure-Anemone: Highly elastic flora. Vaulting off it at high speed propels you forward while releasing a jet of water that pushes away trailing predators.
- Metal-Eater Moss: Highly acidic moss growing around damaged pipes. Crossing it strips a predator's armor if you trick them into trailing your exact line.
- Hull-Kelp: Long, thick strands attached to the sub's hydroplanes. You can grab their flow lines with your movement arc to swing around 90-degree metal corners.

2. The Pirate Ship

Navigating the sunken graveyards of 17th-century wooden galleons, rotting rigging, cannon ports, and coral-overgrown treasure holds.

The 4 Large Beasts

- Passive Giant (Timber-Shell Tortoise): A behemoth tortoise with a shell encrusted in sunken cannonballs and wood planks. It lumbers through ship hulls, crushing rotting wood decks and opening up new traversal corridors through the wrecks.
- Clever Hunter (Rigging-Mimic Cuttlefish): Disguises its tentacles as fraying ropes hanging from shipwreck masts. It waits patiently for you to vault off a rope, grabbing you mid-air unless you inspect the tension of the line before jumping.

- Unique Predator (Cannoneer Mantis Shrimp): Hides inside open cannon portholes. When it senses high-velocity movement across its field of view, it fires a cavitation strike at the speed of a bullet, creating a lethal shockwave that shatters surrounding timber.
- Apex Predator (The Grand Kraken): A colossal deep-sea squid whose tentacles wind through multiple shipwrecks simultaneously. When it moves, it snaps entire ships in half, completely altering the terrain and forcing high-speed escape parkour.

The 2 Fodder Beasts

- Wood-Borer Worms: Tiny organisms that riddle the ship timber. Dashing over them causes weakened wood to collapse beneath you, dropping pursuing predators into lower decks.
- Copper-Scale Minnows: Brightly reflecting fish that nest in open chests. Herding them creates a flashing light curtain that distracts the Cuttlefish.

The 5 Flora Types

- Cannon-Moss: Spongy moss that absorbs kinetic energy. Landing on it allows for silent drops from high rigging without alerting acoustic predators.
- Ship-Rot Fungus: Detonates in a spore cloud when struck, obscuring vision and emitting a rotting scent that draws scavengers into the area.
- Mast-Kelp: Wraps tightly around broken wood. Dashing through it snaps the kelp under tension, sending a wooden beam swinging like a battering ram into pursuing beasts.
- Barnacle-Cluster: Razor-sharp growth. Fatal to you if you dash directly into it, but acts as a cheese-grater to large predators pursuing you closely.
- Siren's Lantern Weed: Emits an intense, pulsating glow that illuminates dark hold interiors, revealing hidden Rigging-Mimics.

3. The Island

Traversing the submerged roots, tidal pools, waterfall lagoons, and ancient flooded tribal temples of a tropical island.

The 4 Large Beasts

- Passive Giant (Goliath Island Beetle): A massive, amphibious beetle worshipped by the local tribe. Its broad, stone-like shell carries carved tribal idols and serves as a mobile platform across wide, open lagoon waters.

- Clever Hunter (Mangrove Stalker): An amphibious reptilian predator that operates both in water and on roots. It utilizes tribal vine traps and natural chokepoints, waiting patiently above water drops to snap you as you land.
- Unique Predator (Totem-Centipede): A massive, segmented horror that weaves through temple stone and beach sand. The uncontacted tribe alerts you to its presence by beating drums when it wakes; it senses ground vibrations and breaches violently from underwater walls.
- Apex Predator (The Island God / Arch-Serpent): A colossal sea serpent worshipped by the island inhabitants. It circles the island's coastal cliffs, smashing through ancient stone bridges and creating massive tidal surges.

The 2 Fodder Beasts

- Tidal Mud-Skippers: Small fish that skip across the water surface. Sprinting behind them gives you a visual marker for safe, shallow stepping-stones.
- Glow-Fireflies: Swarm around water-lilies. Passing through them coats your body in bright dust, making you visible to the Totem-Centipede if you don't rinse off in deep water.

The 5 Flora Types

- Tribal Drum-Fungus: A taut, drum-like mushroom. Hitting it with high kinetic energy launches you high into the air while emitting a loud acoustic shockwave that triggers the Centipede.
- Poison-Dart Vine: Hanging vines that drip neurotoxin. Grazing them is fatal, but tricking a Mangrove Stalker into snapping through them paralyzes its jaw.
- Razor-Palm Roots: Sharp underwater roots. Forces precise parkour weaving; pursuing predators get tangled and sustain permanent lacerations.
- Idol's Bloom: A rare flower that, when brushed against, releases a mist that instantly resets your hydro-dash cooldowns.
- Mangrove Root-Sponges: Compress under impact and spring back, preserving 100% of your vault velocity.

4. The Cave

A completely pitch-black, submerged cavern system defined by stalactites, echolocation, and acoustic hazards.

The 4 Large Beasts

- Passive Giant (Crystal-Shelled Tortoise): A behemoth that grazes on glowing moss. Its impenetrable shell provides dynamic, moving cover against ceiling drop-attacks from predators.
- Clever Hunter (Echo-Stalker): A blind, amphibious hunter that tracks by sonar. It throws loose rocks with its tail to test acoustic reflections, hunting your exact location if you make noise.
- Unique Predator (Tremor Worm): A massive burrowing worm that weaves through solid rock walls. It senses fast foot-runs or hydro-dashes, giving warning via wall vibrations before bursting through the stone.
- Apex Predator (Abyssal Arachnid): A giant aquatic spider that spins invisible, high-tension webs across major cavern tunnels, suspending drained corpses of mid-tier beasts as warnings.

The 2 Fodder Beasts

- Glow-Shrimp: Swarm around light plants. Sprinting through them splatters glowing fluid on your suit, allowing you to paint invisible spider webs by brushing past them.
- Blind Cave Loaches: Sluggish fish that panic at vibrations, signaling where the Tremor Worm is about to breach.

The 5 Flora Types

- Lantern-Shroom: Static bioluminescent fungi that light up path junctions.
- Acid-Lichen: Corrosive wall growth. Fatal to you on contact, but strips the armor off pursuing predators if you juke them into it.
- Vibration-Spore: Fragile drum-like fungi. Hitting them generates a massive acoustic explosion that deafens the Echo-Stalker and summons the Tremor Worm.
- Cave-Cabbage: Dense underwater leaves that mask your scent and thermal profile when you slide through them.
- Nerve-Root: Paralytic barbs that slow down fodder beasts, turning them into stationary targets for predators.

5. The Seaweed

A dense, jungle-like underwater forest of giant kelp, marked by zero visibility, extreme verticality, and murky waters.

The 4 Large Beasts

- Passive Giant (Goliath Manatee): A colossal herbivore that clears pathways through impenetrable kelp walls. Guided by the player grazing specific kelp to leave scent trails.
- Clever Hunter (Mimic Octopus-Stalker): Uses flawless camouflage to blend with kelp stalks, laying deadly ambushes along high-speed traversal routes.
- Unique Predator (Harpoon Mantis): A cliff-burrow crustacean that strikes with bullet-like speed. Must be disarmed by popping nearby air-plants to deflect its strike.
- Apex Predator (Leviathan Tiger Shark): A massive, relentless apex predator that tracks blood via the Eulerian Scent Grid across the entire forest.

The 2 Fodder Beasts

- Silver-Fin Sardines: Massive, reactive schools used to distract predators or mask your movement vectors.
- Bristle-Crabs: Bottom-feeders that crunch underfoot, generating localized sound cues.

The 5 Flora Types

- Blood-Kelp: High-nutrient kelp that bleeds scent into the Eulerian grid when grazed, luring herbivores or drawing predators away.
- Luminescent Anemone: Emits safe-zone light but slows down predators with a mild neurotoxin if they crash into it.
- Air-Weed: Bulbous oxygen plants that explode into massive buoyancy bubbles when hit, launching you vertically.
- Tangle-Vine: Structural, impenetrable kelp that can only be cleared by the Goliath Manatee.
- Spore-Pod: Ruptures on impact to max out water turbidity, creating a blinding smokescreen to escape line-of-sight hunters.

6. Atlantis

A sprawling sunken city of ancient marble aqueducts, glowing energy crystals, grand amphitheaters, and collapsing architecture.

The 4 Large Beasts

- Passive Giant (Orichalcum Leviathan): An ancient, gentle whale-like creature encrusted with glowing Atlantean crystals. It swims through grand aqueducts, acting as a high-speed moving transit line across open city plazas.

- Clever Hunter (Gargoyle-Moray): A large eel that coils inside marble statues. It uses ancient polished mirrors to observe you from around corners before executing an ambush.
- Unique Predator (Phalanx Crustacean): A heavily armored guardian beast that patrols sunken temples. When triggered by fast movement, it projects a directional hard-light shockwave from its crystal shell that crushes anything in its path.
- Apex Predator (Poseidon's Scourge): A colossal golden sea serpent that reposed in the royal palace. Its immense scale causes entire marble aqueducts and temples to collapse as it chases you through the ruins.

The 2 Fodder Beasts

- Crystal-Minnows: Tiny fish that absorb ambient crystal light and emit a blinding flash when startled by a hydro-dash.
- Mosaic-Snails: Slugs that leave a frictionless, glass-like slime on marble floors, allowing for ultra-high-speed slides.

The 5 Flora & Crystal Types

- Sun-Crystal Kelp: Emits intense light that blinds low-light predators like the Gargoyle-Moray.
- Prism-Moss: Absorbs movement energy; landing on it converts your downward velocity into lateral dash momentum.
- Aqueduct-Vine: High-tension vines growing along ruins. Can be grabbed mid-vault to swing around sharp stone pillars.
- Stasis-Lily: When struck, releases a dense gel that momentarily freezes a predator's momentum in mid-charge.
- Ruin-Spore: Grows on crumbling marble. Impacting it causes the surrounding stone structure to structurally fail and collapse on pursuers.

7. The Abyss

A continuous, terrifying vertical descent into a pitch-black trench filled with deep-sea horror, extreme pressure, and bioluminescent lures.

The 4 Large Beasts

- Passive Giant (Whale-Fall Scavenger): A gargantuan, heavily armored Isopod feeding on massive skeletons at the trench floor. Completely unbothered by anything, its flat back provides safe cover from downward suction currents.

- Clever Hunter (Angler-Cephalopod): A squid that hides inside Void-Moss, manipulating a bioluminescent lure that mimics safe flora or air bubbles to draw you into its crushing beak.
- Unique Predator (Pressure-Ghost): A massive, translucent jellyfish that periodically inhales thousands of gallons of water, creating violent, sudden suction currents that drag you off your parkour trajectory.
- Apex Predator (The Trench-Maw): A colossal Gulper Eel whose unhinged jaw is wider than the trench corridors. It swallows entire sections of the map, requiring you to use extreme environmental hazards to disrupt its mouth.

The 2 Fodder Beasts

- Trench-Krill: Bioluminescent swarms that only become visible in your wake, highlighting safe wind-and-water currents down the abyss.
- Slime-Hagfish: Extremely slippery scavengers. When drawn by blood, they secrete massive amounts of mucus that eliminate friction on surrounding walls.

The 5 Flora Types

- Thermal-Vent Tube Worms: Clustered around deep heat vents; they emit superheated updrafts that launch you upward against gravity.
- Void-Moss: Absolute black moss that absorbs all light. Dashing through it renders you invisible to visual hunters for 3 seconds.
- Pressure-Bulb: Highly pressurized plant nodes that implode violently when struck, creating a concussive shockwave that stuns beasts.
- Abyssal Coral: Razor-sharp terrain that shreds any predator that scrapes against it, filling the Eulerian grid with blood.
- Ghost-Kelp: Pale, ethereal kelp that instantly resets all movement abilities and dash cooldowns upon physical contact.
